Hever Castle & Gardens – Sun. 17th June - £25

Hever Castle (just in Kent) began as a 13thc. castle and was converted into a country house in 1462 by an ancestor of Anne Boleyn who added a Tudor house within the walls. In 1903 it was acquired by William Waldorf Astor who undertook extensive repairs.

Hever Castle is now a tourist attraction, drawing on its links with Anne Boleyn and Henry VIII, its mazes, gardens and lake. The Castles to Country Houses exhibition contains a collection of 1/12 scale model houses ranging from the medieval to Victorian periods made by master miniaturist John Hodgeson.

The castle offers three floors containing antique furniture, Anne Boleyn's prayer books, and a large collection of Tudor paintings. It has the oldest working original portcullis in England.

The spectacular gardens were created by William Waldorf Astor. You can enjoy the topiary and wander through the rose and climbing shrub pergolas. There is the scent of 3000 roses in the walled garden, and over 150 yds. of herbaceous border & herb garden.

There are cafes and picnic areas.
