The National Trust (NT) acquired Tyntesfield (near Bristol) in 2002. The WHA were early visitors in 2005. A lot has happened since then!

2012 celebrates ten years of National Trust ownership as 1,000 items are unpacked and 100 stories are told. Discover the glory of this Victorian home lived in by four generations of the Gibbs family, all making their mark and never throwing anything away. Find out how Tyntesfield became the Trust's largest conservation project. Enjoy the flamboyant Gothic architecture of the chapel. Wonder at the Trust's largest recorded collection of fascinating objects.

Be inspired by flower-filled terraces, the enchanting rose garden and productive kitchen garden. Enjoy the great outdoors on the wider estate and let the views take your breath away. Delicious food at Home Farm café is available and browse in the gift shop, garden and bookshops.
